

Part I — Material for MVP: Psihointegritet

Psihointegritet Digital Mental Health Center

1. Brief Description of Psihointegritet

Psihointegritet is a digital mental health center providing professional psychological support through individual psychotherapy, couples counseling, educational content, workshops, and personal development programs.

Our mission is to make mental health more accessible, understandable, and less stigmatized. We believe that everyone deserves a safe space where they can get to know themselves better, develop their potential, and find support when they need it.

2. Biographies

(This is just to start in a certain direction — a section that will certainly be much more extensive and revised later)

Founder Biography

Maria Bullock

Social Worker and Gestalt Psychotherapist under supervision

Through individual and couples work, I provide support to individuals who want to better understand themselves, improve the quality of their relationships, and find healthier ways to cope with life challenges.

I am particularly interested in topics regarding emotional development, romantic relationships, parenting, burnout, transgenerational patterns, and personal growth.

My approach is based on Gestalt psychotherapy, which encourages the development of awareness, authenticity, and taking responsibility for one's own life.

Biographies of the First Therapists

Elsa Browers

Pedagogue and Gestalt Psychotherapist under supervision

Works with adolescents and adults through individual psychotherapeutic work, offering support in personal development, emotional difficulties, and the improvement of interpersonal relationships.

John Francis

Psychologist and Gestalt Psychotherapist under supervision

Works with adults and couples, with a special interest in emotional regulation, couples' relationship development, stress, and personal growth.

6. Scope of Work

(Personally, I am not sure if I would place therapists into specific categories; I would rather place this in the section regarding the client's reason for reaching out, so that after triage they can be directed to an adequate or currently available therapist — all of us generally have only 2 to 3 categories we do not work with due to personal reasons)

Maria Bullock: Anxiety and depression, Burnout, Couples relationships, Parenting, Personal growth, Working on emotions

Elsa Browers: Adolescents, Self-confidence, Emotional difficulties, Relationships, Identity development, Working on emotions

John Francis: Couples relationships, Emotional regulation, Stress, Personal growth, Self-esteem

7. What Does the First Session Look Like?

The first session is an opportunity for us to get to know each other and discuss the reason for your visit. During the conversation, we explore what is currently weighing on you, what your expectations from therapy are, and how we can work together.

You will have the opportunity to ask any questions you are interested in, and the therapist will explain the way of working, confidentiality rules, and suggest the next steps.

The first conversation is not an obligation to continue the therapeutic process, but an opportunity to assess whether the therapist and their approach suit you.

8. Scheduling and Cancellation Rules

- Sessions are scheduled in advance.
- Cancellation or rescheduling must be done at least 24 hours prior to the session.
- Cancellations after this deadline will be charged in full, except in exceptional circumstances.
- Lateness reduces the duration of the session.
- All data and conversations are confidential in accordance with the ethical principles of the profession.

9. Example Workshop

Discover Yourself Through Gestalt Experience

An experiential workshop designed for anyone wishing to develop self-awareness, understand their emotions, and explore behavioral patterns.

Through group work, experiential exercises, and Gestalt experiments, participants have the opportunity to better understand themselves, improve contact with others, and explore new ways of reacting in everyday situations.

Duration: 3 hours

10. Plan for Professional Articles

1. How to recognize burnout before it becomes a serious problem?
2. Why isn't it necessary to reach a "breaking point" before coming to psychotherapy?
3. Setting boundaries without feeling guilty.

11. Frequently Asked Questions (FAQ)

Is everything I say confidential?

Yes. All information remains strictly between the client and therapist, except in situations prescribed by law and the code of ethics.

How long does therapy last?

Duration depends on your goals and needs. Some people come for a few months, while others choose a longer-term process.

Can I work online?

Yes. All services are also available online.

How do I know which therapist is right for me?

On the therapists' profiles, you can find information about their approach, experience, and areas of work, and you can always contact us for a recommendation.

Do I need a diagnosis to come to therapy?

No. Psychotherapy is intended for anyone who wants to better understand themselves or is going through a challenging period in life.

12. Visual Identity

I would like a modern, minimalist, and warm visual identity that inspires trust. Natural colors, plenty of light space, authentic photos of therapists, and avoiding stereotypical psychology photos (people holding their heads, sad expressions, etc.).

Colors: Earth tones (Olive green, Beige, White). Generally nothing aggressive like red or strong colors.
